

Fred comes through, rain or shine!

Early one morning a week or so ago, I happened to look out the window and noticed a large storm cloud rolling across the playground behind our school. You could hear the excitement in the air as the teachers and staff of Clays Mill Elementary beamed at the fact that their lawns at home would shortly find relief in the form of the looming rain. Quickly our gaze turned from intrigue to surprise when the wind started whirling and the rain started pouring. It was then that I noticed a smiling colleague standing dripping in my doorway!

It seems that from across the rain soaked parking lot, our wonderful Tech Man – Mr. Roger Mullins, had seen my daughter's cloth bag of library books and my own stuffed bag of workout wear – tennis shoes and all – lying on the top of my car, being left subject to the impending rain!

It was then I remembered the previous hour as I accidentally carried in ALL of my bags versus the school bag that I really needed. Lazily, after returning the bags out front, I realized I had forgotten my keys so I had laid my bags on the trunk of my car. I was certain that the blue skies above during my morning car duty weren't going anywhere. I had told myself that after duty I would unlock my car and put my bags inside. When the rain started I had gotten sidetracked and completely forgotten my items outside! Roger ran across the parking lot, in the opposite direction from the front door, to retrieve my items. Thank you, Roger, for noticing the dry bags on the back of my car and asking around as to who owned that silly red Mustang with the workout wear on the back! This, plus a myriad of other techie things make you truly a Fred to all of us at Clays Mill Elementary!
