

Wanted: A few good young women

The Bluegrass Alliance for Women is offering a one-semester program this fall to give young women a first hand look at what it's like to hold a public office. Participants will be paired up with female elected officials, who will serve as mentors to the students throughout the program.

To qualify, you must be a high school or college student and maintain good grades, receive a recommendation from a teacher, complete an application and interview, and write a brief essay on your leadership or service activities. The program is open to only 20 students.

Applications are due by September 15 and can be obtained by contacting Anne Weston at 859-293-2621 or at aweston@gswrc.org or Robin Fleischer at 859-245-5221 or at robin_fleischer@georgetowncollege.edu.
