Tiffany Drake of Leestown Middle School is passionate about everything she does. ... She has a mentor group of boys who might have slipped through the cracks without her support. She teaches them not only academics, but also life lessons that will make them better individuals. She also has started to teach an extra class on her planning period so that at-risk students have the help they need to be successful. And she has paid out-of-pocket so that students can attend field trips or play sports. ... Her middle school students have a profound respect for her that I have never seen before.
