

On Jan. 16, I went to pick up my son for a doctor's appointment. When I pulled into the parking lot at Southern Elementary, I hit the curb, causing a tire to go flat. Eric Robinson is a custodian at the school. It was only 35 degrees outside and took an hour to get my tire changed, but Eric changed my tire. I called roadside assistance, which would have cost $75, but because of Eric, I didn't have to pay that. It was not an easy task to change the tire, but Eric never complained. Eric deserves a Fred because he didn't have to do what he did.

-- Submitted by Heidi Reihing, communications specialist, FCPS