

Ninth-graders honored for progress

Each spring, high school freshmen who have demonstrated hard work, perseverance and significant progress during the year are awarded the Fayette County Public Schools Ninth Grade Improvement Award.

This year's honorees, who were selected by teachers and counselors at their high schools, celebrated during a May 13 awards banquet at Immanuel Baptist Church. Brittany Sehgal, a 2005 honoree and now a senior at Henry Clay High School, was the featured speaker.

Congratulations to Jamaal Fields of Bryan Station High School, Kelsee Jackson of Henry Clay High, Mark Hersey of Lafayette High, Nicole Stokley of Paul Laurence Dunbar High and Yusef Mason of Tates Creek High, who were chosen as grand prize winners and received an MP3 player courtesy of Dell Inc.
